

Creative and Technical Services Manager

- Do YOU want to be part of an awesome creative team?
- Are YOU looking for a creative leadership role?
- Does Educational Publishing inspire YOU creatively?

The Schools Division of Pearson Australia is seeking an experienced and enthusiastic manager to lead a large team to develop innovative and cutting edge designs for all print, marketing and web K-12 schools products.

Reporting to the Head of Editorial and Production, you will be responsible for managing the workloads, training and development of a large studio of creative and technical specialists, including concept designers, graphic designers, desktop operators, archivists, illustrators and front end designers/programmers. In collaboration with publishing business units, you will also oversee the development of key designs, ensuring all products are produced to very high standards using industry best practice procedures, as well as to agreed budgets and timelines. You will be part of the management team of the production department and will be responsible for developing and implementing process improvement, identifying training opportunities for staff and contributing to the business units' success.

As the ideal candidate, you will have

- formal design qualifications,
- proven managerial experience,
- demonstrated skill utilising software including InDesign, Photoshop and Illustrator; and
- ideally you will have experience with web design.

Your unique ability to guide and motivate staff to produce high quality, market leading designs will be well regarded.

You will be organised with excellent interpersonal and communications skills and will have an ability to build, establish and maintain effective working relationships internally and with external freelancers.

You will have an incredible eye for detail, the ability to work independently to deadline and a flair for design beyond the ordinary.

This is an exciting Senior role within the Educational Publishing Team for an innovative, creative leader to bring their creative skills to an evolving and growing team delivering excellence in Educational products to Australians. Join us in the evolution now by clicking 'apply', and don't forget to watch us our YouTube Videos, learn more about our business, what we do, who we are, and how we are leading innovation in Education globally!

ALWAYS LEARNING

You must have the right to live and work in this location to apply for this job.

APPLY