

Gay rights - a pictorial history

9600-5000bc

Pretty simple. No colour scheme.

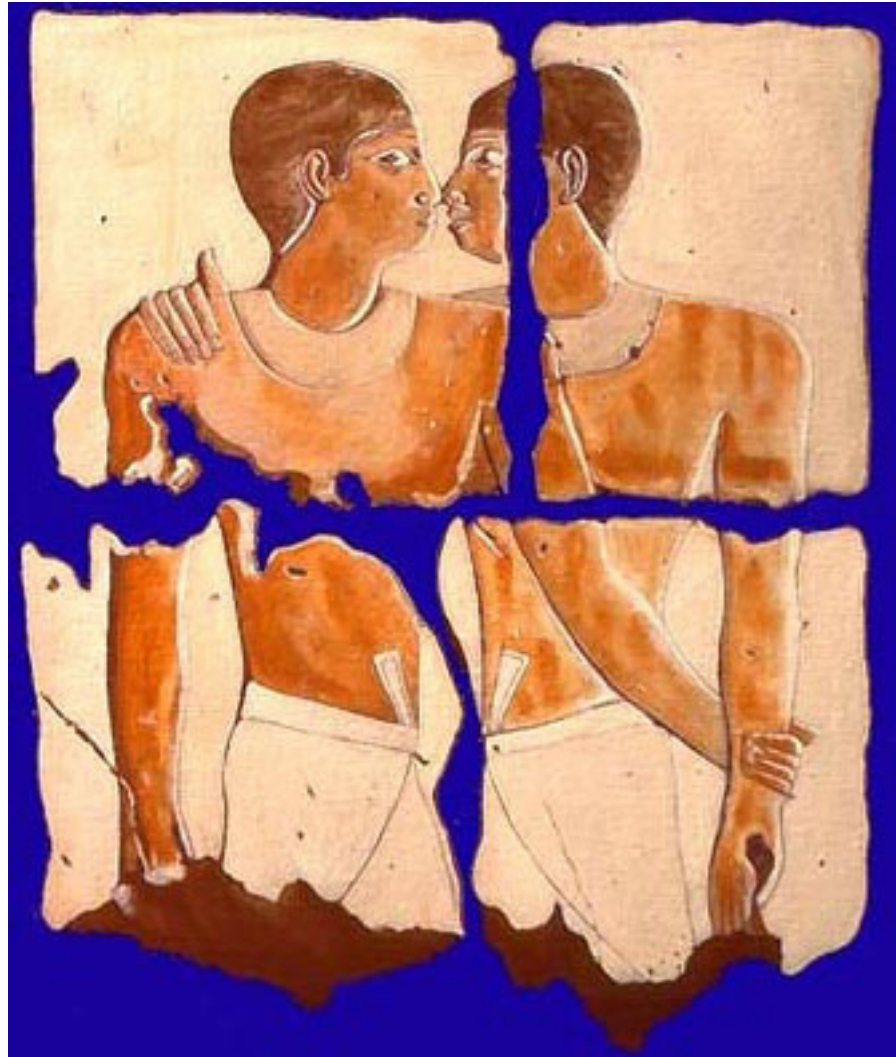

Repeating elements

25th century BC

Egyptian posters said to be representing homosexuality.

Similar colours used and lines

7th Century to 1450's

Various depictions right up until the invention of the printing press

Not much in the support of homosexuality - 9th circle of hell is where homosexuals go when executed for their lifestyle.

Painted in romantic style?

18th century BC

An 18th-century portrait sold in New York to a British gallery as a “woman in a feathered hat” turns out to actually portray a man dressed as a woman, becoming the earliest known painting of a trans-vestite.

blues and red repeated

20th century BC

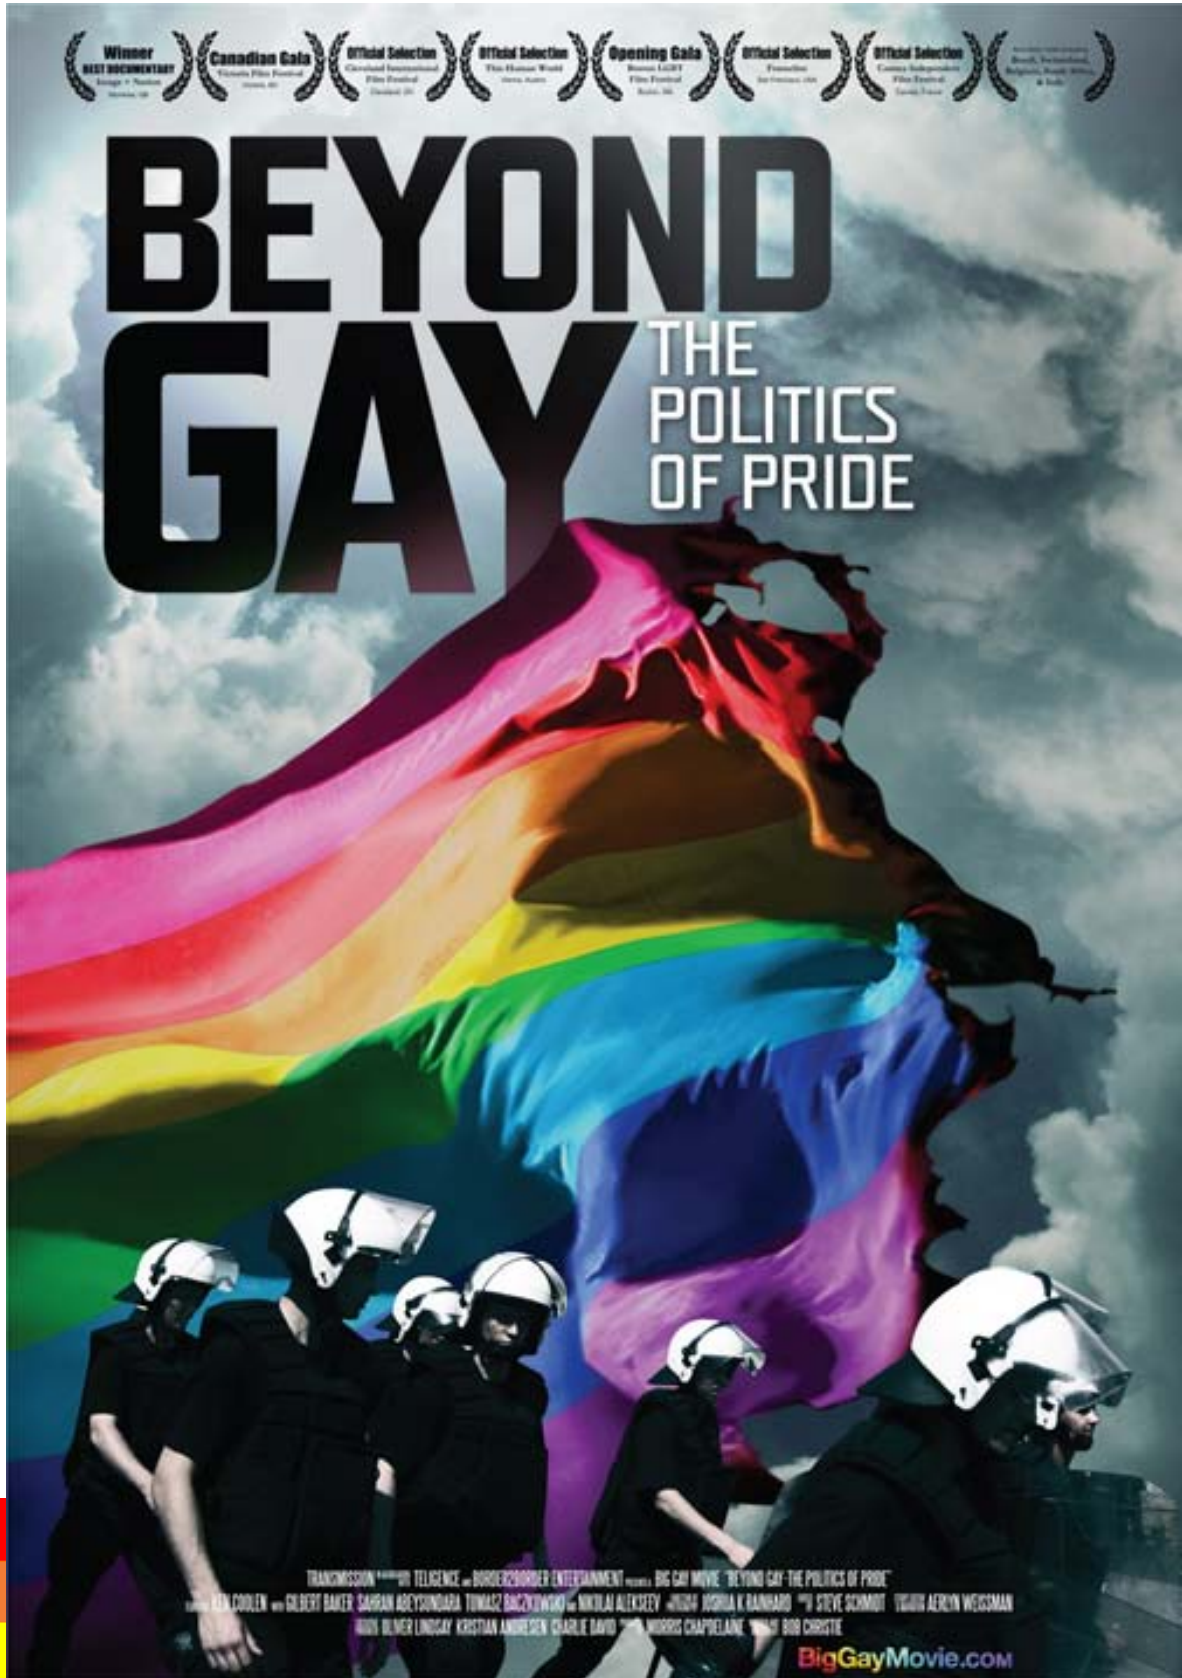

Seems to be when things really happened.

Tackng of Incan flag as gay rights flag (rainbow flag)
